

Fast-track your path to HPE GreenLake

The business case is clear—you have buy-in up and down the chain of command. You will finally be able to have the agility, control, and resource-savings you have wanted for your whole career with a move to HPE GreenLake. It's full steam ahead! You just have two things to figure out: how do you fund the transition, and what do you do with your legacy assets? Aligning your innovation strategy and innovation plans at the beginning will help you ensure that your IT investment is a force multiplier.

As you move to HPE GreenLake, it is more important than ever to ensure that your asset and financial plans align. By deploying a smart asset lifecycle plan and using sustainability as a catalyst, you can:

- Reduce funding barriers with capital released from end-of-use tech
- Bridge the gaps when modernizing multi-gen environments to help ensure business continuity
- Build IT lifecycle processes that are consistent and globally available
- Overcome supply chain constraints

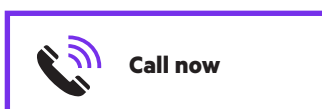

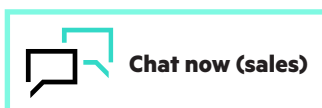

One of the ways to achieve these ends is with the HPE Accelerated Migration¹ program through HPEFS. This sustainable asset management solution helps customers access the value in legacy equipment and move forward sooner by converting existing, owned IT assets into an incremental cash source while transitioning the use of systems to HPE GreenLake. In-place technology becomes an enabler to bridge budget gaps, with no interruption to business operations.

Taking this approach can deliver great results. In fact, Worldline, the largest European digital payments provider selected HPE GreenLake edge-to-cloud platform to accelerate digital transactions and deliver exceptional customer experience. With the flexible as-a-service (aaS) model of HPE GreenLake and the HPE Financial Services asset renewal program, Worldline funded approximately 25% of their platform refresh.²

Step out of the shadows of your legacy infrastructure, quickly, easily, and sustainably and enjoy the view of HPE GreenLake.
